

In the Anchors for the future project, we are creating materials that will inspire, motivate and help girls and young women on their journey through professional and personal lives.

Did you also have to overcome some obstacles and stereotypes at an age when young people are expected to make big decisions that may affect their whole future lives? Share your story and inspire the next generation of women to have courage, determination, empowerment and get rid of the fear of failure or asking for help.

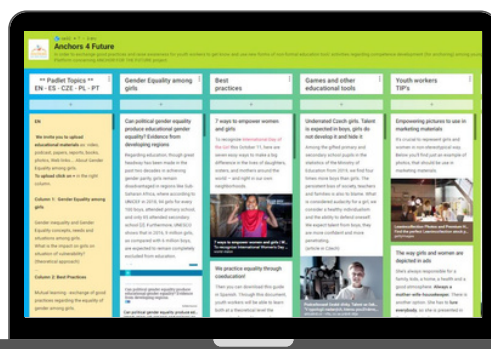

Do you know young women around the age of 13-21 who are already an inspiration for your surroundings?

Let us know about them!

SHARE YOUR STORY

Padlet is an educational platform where everyone can participate and share their best practices, inspirations, motivations and information about not only the gender equality among girls topics. Lets build a platform where stereotypes are not involved together.

Internal meeting in June

The first personal meeting was placed in Opole and we dedicated it to game creation with youth workers. This game is one of the main intellectual outputs of the project.

Family as an important source of anchors

As in any relationship, there are moments of misunderstanding, but these are not big conflicts, and every difference in opinion should be talked through.
